The FSC designation means this book is printed on paper that is Forest Stewardship Council certified. The paper is old growth free, acid free, and all fibres are harvested using sustainable forest practices. No chlorine is used in the processing. All inks are vegetable/soya based.

The background is a rich, textured illustration of a garden. It features various shades of green for the leaves and foliage, with some areas appearing darker and more shadowed. There are hints of red and blue, possibly representing different types of plants or flowers. The overall style is painterly and somewhat abstract, with visible brushstrokes and a sense of depth. The text is overlaid on the right side of the image, in a white, sans-serif font.

Michael planted a tiny seed,
In the garden bed.
Now he has all kinds of beans,
Enough that he'll be fed.

"Wow! All I did was plant one seed.
And look how many grew!
Now I'm full of wonder, thinking,
Just what could I do?"

"I could eat them raw,
As much as I grew.
Or maybe I could,
Make a soup too!"

"Mom has made a salad,
That I could add them to.
That's another different thing,
That I could also do."

His sister Megan was amazed,
"From where did all this come?"
"I just planted a little seed,"
He said, "This is such fun!"

"Let's work together,
Both me and you.
To see what we could do,
With what you grew."

"What if we planted another one?

Or maybe a hundred and two!

Then we could feed the neighbourhood,

What an amazing thing to do!"

"We could feed our family,
And all of our friends too.
We could work with local farmers,
What a special thing to do!"

"We could grow peas and carrots and beans,
And maybe tomatoes too.
All sorts of healthy vegetables,
Not just for me and you."

"We could make tomato sauce,
With oodles of noodles to chew.
Or something else that we could try,
Is making pizza too!"

"We could jar up our tomatoes,
They'd last a long time too.
That's another helpful thing,
That you and I could do."

"Potatoes, kale, and broccoli,
Any vegetable would do.
Good foods that build our bodies up,
And other people's too."

"Now I know what I can do,
With what I grew.
Maybe others didn't help,
But they need to eat too."

"As we grow older,
We can grow bolder.
Like growing healthy food,
For people the world over."

Plant a seed and see what grows,
Right before your eyes.
A living thing so green and tall,
A beautiful surprise.

From a simple seed in the ground,
Look what Michael grew.
Food that we can all enjoy,
That keeps us growing too!

"Teach a child to plant a seed
while they're still open to learning,
and let them see what grows."
